

The Danish Graduate Programme in Economics (DGPE) and
The Department of Economics at the University of Copenhagen announce:

PhD course on “Topics in International Macroeconomics”

April 19–21, 2010

Department of Economics, Building 26 at Øster Farimagsgade 5, Copenhagen

Lectured by: Andrew K. Rose, Haas School of Business at the University of California, Berkeley

Local Organizer: Peter Norman Sørensen, University of Copenhagen

Rough Course Outline with some Key Readings:

- a) Models of “Global Imbalances”
 - Caballero, Fahri, and Gourinchas, American Economic Review (AER) 2008
 - Blanchard, Giavazzi and Sa, Brookings Papers on Economic Activity 2005
 - Dooley, Garber, and Folkerts-Landau, NBER Working Paper 9971.
- b) Recent Developments in Open Economy Macro Models
 - Devereux and Engel, Review of Economic Studies 2003
- c) International Transmission of Business Cycles
 - Frankel and Rose, Economic Journal 1998
- d) Modeling Bilateral Trade Flows
 - Anderson and van Wincoop, AER 2003
- e) The Aggregate Role of the Multilateral Trading Institutions
 - Rose, AER 2004
 - Tomz, Goldstein, and Rivers, AER 2007
- f) Recent Developments in Optimum Currency Areas and Currency Unions
 - Barro and Alesina, Quarterly Journal of Economics 2002
 - Rose, Economic Policy 2000

Registration no later than April 12, 2010 to:

Christel Brink Hansen, Christel.Brink.Hansen@econ.ku.dk

The course is directed to all Danish and international PhD students, as well as postdocs and other researchers.