

Workshop on Inequality and Public Policy

Keynote speaker: Henrik Kleven (Princeton University)

University of Copenhagen
6-8 September 2021

This year's Zeuthen lecturer at the University of Copenhagen is Professor Henrik Kleven (Princeton University). Professor Kleven will give three lectures on "Gender Inequality in the Labor Market" on 6-8 September 2021.

In connection with the Zeuthen lectures, Center for Economic Behavior and Inequality (CEBI) at the University of Copenhagen is organizing a workshop on "Inequality and Public Policy" on 7-8 September 2021. We hereby invite submission of papers for presentation at the workshop. We welcome theoretical and empirical papers on inequality and public policy, for example analyzing sources of inequality across gender and social classes, behavioral responses to tax and welfare policy, and the trade-off between equality and efficiency in policy making.

While the workshop takes place on 7-8 September, we encourage participants to arrive on September 6 and attend the first lecture by professor Kleven in the afternoon. We are able to cover travel costs (economy-class) and accommodation for two nights in Copenhagen. Submissions by graduate students, post-docs and other young researchers are particularly welcome.

Please submit papers by email to zeuthen-workshop-2020@econ.ku.dk no later than August 8 2021. Authors of selected papers will be notified by 11 August 2021 and are expected to make travel plans immediately after.

For further information about the workshop, please contact the organizers: Claus Thustrup Kreiner (ctk@econ.ku.dk) and Niels Johannesen (niels.johannesen@econ.ku.dk).

OBS: The lectures and workshop will take place in person unless the situation makes it impossible. In that case, it will be changed to an online event.